Since the launch of Netflix VR, more and more people are interested in trying out the VR version of the application. It can be many different different for their interest. They might just want a warm and immersive environment like the lobby that Netflix VR offers, they don't want to be distracted by their roommates, or there's some construction work going on outside. Whatever the reasons, Netflix VR is gaining popularity. Therefore, it will not come as a surprise if you suddenly develop an urge to try it. On the higher-end VR headsets with their feature-rich VR platforms, the Netflix VR application is easy to download and playable. However, it is not possible to run Netflix VR with Google Cardboard. However, Google Cardboard is one of the cheapest ways for you to get started with virtual reality. Not everyone is interested in VR enough to even buy a mobile VR headset, which shouldn't be a problem. But what happens if you like a very specific application or application and just want to try it out on VR? Unfortunately, there are not many opportunities for these people. For those interested in firing Netflix on VR with Google Cardboard: It's possible. We've put this article up especially for people interested in enjoying the immersive environment of the Trinus VR application without having to spend a lot of money to buy high-end VR headsets and use the Netflix VR application. What are the limits? It's important to remember that using this process gives you an immersive environment to watch Netflix videos. However, it won't give you the full set of cool VR features included with the Netflix VR application. Trinus VR Trinus VR is like a screen mirroring application that works for VR. Trinus VR mirrors the screen of a computer or laptop on a smartphone on the same network in a format that can be viewed with a VR headset. What do you need to do to get started? The process is not as easy as downloading an application on your Android phone and launching it. However, it is simple and does not require any technical knowledge. With this tutorial, you can easily start with Netflix VR on your Google Cardboard headset, regardless of your technical background. A few things are needed to run the Netflix VR application properly. The first thing you need is a Windows computer (a PC or laptop). You also need a working Internet connection. If you don't have Wi-Fi, the process can be very complicated. You also need a smartphone and a cardboard headset. Once you are ready, the next step is to download the Trinus VR application and install it on your computer. You also need to download Trinus VR Android application. Netflix in Google Cardboard We have summarized the process in a series of steps that are easily taken by our viewers and can be implemented. Download, install, and set up Trinus VR on your computer. The installation process is simple and straightforward. It should not take more than 5 minutes to complete. Download the Trinus VR application on your android android Connect your smartphone and computer to the same network. Here, Wi-Fi is the easiest option. Smartphones cannot be connected via LAN cable, so it is preferable to connect your smartphone and PC over a Wi-Fi network. Run Trinus VR on your computer and smartphone. Enter your phone's IP address in the dialog box in the Trinus VR app on your PC. The IP address of your smartphone is displayed on the home screen of the Trinus VR Android app. Click on the start button of the Trinus VR app on your PC and on the application in your Android app. The screen mirroring should be started. Launch the Netflix application or open the Netflix website from your browser. Select the video you want to watch, start streaming and put it on your headset. That's all you need to do to watch Netflix content over VR using the Google Cardboard headset. Of course, you also need a computer or laptop at any time to enjoy it. However, this should not be a problem. Always comfortable with your headset while enjoying Netflix Netflix is an amazingly large library of content. It's possible to spend hours watching the content on Netflix without a break. It's important that you find a sweet spot while watching Netflix videos through your Google Cardboard headset. This is because it can get uncomfortable after about half an hour. They're not tied to motion tracking, so you can change your position on the couch or bed as many times as you want to make yourself comfortable, and the app won't get out of sight. The same feature is also offered in the official Netflix VR application. Another tip to enjoy Netflix in a VR environment is to avoid distractions. Many people use VR to get away from distractions. However, VR is very immersive, and immersion contributes significantly to the overall experience. Constantly distracted or sitting in a noisy area, you might be irritated when using VR. The last and most important tip is not to let any light get into the headset. Light rays can interact with surfaces on the headset or lenses, creating fun results that distract you. This can cause you to get frustrated and ruin your VR experience. Keeping the inside of your headset isolated from outside light is very rewarding. Rewarding.
